

New Caney
Church of Christ

(physical) 19351 FM 1485
(mail) P.O. Box 903
New Caney, TX 77357
281-399-5900
www.NewCaneyChurchofChrist.org

Assembly Times

Sundays
Bible Class 9:30 a.m.
Worship 10:30 a.m.

Wednesdays
Bible Classes 7:00 p.m.

Retaining The Standard Of Sound Doctrine

Evangelist: Charles Willis
281-841-5718
charleswillisNCCofC@gmail.com

Know Your Bible: Answers

1. Saul (1 Samuel 28:8)
2. Leah (Genesis 29:21–25)
3. King Josiah (2 Chronicles 35:20–24)
4. The Gibeonites (Joshua 9:4–16)

This Week's Assignments & Events

Sunday Worship

Greeter: Lester Mabry
Announcements: John Franks
Encouragement Talk: Ronnie Ramsey
Opening Prayer: Jordan Thomas
Scripture Reading: Truett Blazek
Luke 22:54–65
Song Leader: Billy Lovell
Table Talk: Leighton Daniels
Contribution: Josh Emerson
Helper: Theo Edge
Fruit of Vine: Arturo Orozco
Helper: Aaron Emerson
Helper: Paul Hainline
Closing Prayer: John Van Baale

Sunday Afternoons

June 28 3PM Devotionals
July 5 Nothing
July 12 3PM Summer Study
July 19 Nothing

Wednesday Evening

Song Leader: Corwin Richardson
Speaker: Paul Hainline

Standing Firm

“Take up the full armor of God, that you may be able to resist
in the evil day, and having done everything, to stand firm”
Ephesians 6:13

Volume 23
Number 26
June 28, 2026

It's Not About Me

One of the great problems in our day is that many people fail to recognize the nature and the purpose of the church. They have not come to terms with what God intends for churches to be. In fact, evidence of this misunderstanding abounds in the religious world today. Many people have one basic concern when it comes to which church they will attend: “What am I going to get out of it?” or “What’s in it for me?” They approach religion the same way they approach almost everything else in life—as consumers.

This fact was brought home to me a number of years ago when a large inter-denominational church aired a commercial in which it announced that it would begin offering variety in its worship services. Each of their three services was to feature a different “style” of worship from the others. The commercial began with children approaching an ice cream truck. The children each ordered his or her favorite flavor only to find out that the only available flavor was vanilla. As the children sat on the curb eating their vanilla ice cream, you could see the disappointment on their faces. The implication is obvious. Variety is good, and it’s to be expected. Therefore, choose which flavor of worship suits you best.

The problem with that kind of thinking is that it turns everything around. We are not consumers whose only concern is what pleases us. We are servants who are responsible for giving our Master what he commands. Worship is, first and foremost, a God-centered activity, not a people-centered activity. David captured the essence of worship when he said, “Ascribe to the Lord the glory due his name; worship the Lord in the splendor of holiness” (Psalm 29:2). If this is the chief aim of heavenly beings (cf. Psalm 29:1), it should be ours no less. To worship God is, at least in part, to ascribe to him the glory due his name. He is the object and the focus of worship.

It’s not likely that many among us would fall for such a blatant violation of the intended purpose of worship, substituting our desires for God’s will. We recognize that God has always expected worship to be in keeping with his revealed will. We’ve learned that lesson from Nadab and Abihu (Leviticus 10:1). But there is nonetheless a principle we need to keep in mind. When we come together, it's not about us. Certainly, God intends for his people to get something out of their association with other saints. But we make a mistake any time our primary concern is what's in it for us.

One of the great dangers in our day, even among our own people, is seeing the local church as nothing more than an organization that provides a service to the members of the church—even if they recognize that the service is spiritual in nature. When we come to services, who is being served? Do we have a tendency to think more about what we ought to get out of the services than we do about what we are to give? Those who get the least out of services are often those who put the least into them. That is not a coincidence. This problem may be more subtle than a wholesale move toward religious consumerism, but it's there all the same. People are sometimes more concerned with what they get than they are with what they can give.

We must learn to give God our best. He expects nothing less. But we must also learn to serve others as well. The writer of Hebrews pointed out that one of the reasons we come together is to stir up one another to love and good works (Hebrews 10:24-25).

“So if there is any encouragement in Christ, any comfort from love, any participation in the Spirit, any affection and sympathy, complete my joy by being of the same mind, having the same love, being in full accord and of one mind. Do nothing from rivalry or conceit, but in humility count others more significant than yourselves. Let each of you look not only to his own interests, but also to the interests of others” (Philippians 2:1-4).

Jesus said, “You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. This is the great and first commandment. And a second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself” (Matthew 22:37-39). These words apply just as much to the public assembly as they do to any other part of life. It's not about me.

by Jeff Trahan

Know Your Bible

Impersonators

- 1. What king disguised himself in order to consult with a sorcess?
- 2. Who fooled Jacob by posing as her sister?
- 3. Who disguised himself while going into battle against the forces of Pharoah Neco?
- 4. Who fooled Joshua by pretending to be ambassadors from a distant country?

Answers On Back

Sunday Sermon

Point your phone camera at the square below, then click on the link to hear the sermon. Recordings will change mid-week.

Is It In The Bible?

Something may “sound like” it is in the Bible, but it may be just a homespun adage or a “chimney corner” scripture. It may be a restatement of Biblical principle, but it may also be used to justify unscriptural ideas. Here is a list of well known quotations, some of which are in the Bible. Read them carefully, then check the ones you believe are in the Bible. The answers are printed on the next page.

- ___ 1. “I am escaped with the skin of my teeth”
- ___ 2. “All men are created equal”
- ___ 3. “An idle mind is the devil’s workshop”
- ___ 4. “Cleanliness is next to godliness”
- ___ 5. “Spare the rod and spoil the child”
- ___ 6. “Give the devil his due”
- ___ 7. “God’s mill grinds slow but sure”
- ___ 8. “Blood is thicker than water”
- ___ 9. “Lord, what fools these mortals be”
- ___ 10. “Bread is the staff of life”
- ___ 11. “Familiarity breeds contempt”
- ___ 12. “God moves in mysterious ways his wonders to perform”
- ___ 13. “God is in heave; all’s right with the world”
- ___ 14. “God helps those who help themselves”
- ___ 15. “Charity begins at home”
- ___ 16. “To err is human, to forgive is divine”
- ___ 17. “All’s well that ends well”
- ___ 18. “As you make your bed, you must lie in it”
- ___ 19. “Beauty is only skin deep”
- ___ 20. “The gift without the giver is bare”
- ___ 21. “Better a half a loaf than no bread”
- ___ 22. “United we stand, divided we fall”
- ___ 23. “A liar will not be believed, even when he speaks the truth”
- ___ 24. “An honest confession is good for the soul”
- ___ 25. “There is none so blind as he who will not see”
- ___ 26. “Honesty is the best policy”
- ___ 27. “Neither a borrower or a lender be”
- ___ 28. “The time will come before the end of the world when you cannot tell one season from another, but by the budding of the trees”
- ___ 29. “Money is the root of all evil”
- ___ 30. “Stolen waters are sweet”

